Alloy shell

Seiko quality carefully crafted Ingenuity manufacturing

The overall design adopts a cup style, and the outer shell is made of aluminum alloy in one go, highlighting high-end quality. Various deodorization methods are used for purification, and the display screen can be customized with a logo to better display the brand's strength.

Upgrade anion technology Fresh breath of the forest

The multi-stage boost technology is adopted to generate a large number of small particle size negative ions, which can greatly simulate the negative ion concentration in the natural environment, so as to improve the surrounding air quality and bring fresh breathing such as forest.

Negative ion concentration
 ≥ 300000000 pcs / cm^3

Integrated alloy design Fine metal feel

Each one is processed by precision CNC machine tools, with fine metal texture and excellent technology, which better matches the requirements of car decoration.
